

Paolo Pilotti

Biography

Paolo Pilotti lives and works in Rome, where he was born in 1982. At the age of 3, he picked up his first coloring crayon, with his left hand and hasn't stopped drawing and coloring since.

His innate passion for art has guided him throughout his education: after his high school diploma at Art school, he went on to achieve a Master's degree at the Accademia delle Belle Arti of Rome, in Painting, with his final thesis on the Anatomy.

Over the years, his work has been on display in several personal exhibits, as well as group exhibits in various art galleries across Europe, Asia and Oceania.

Paolo Pilotti's art is a carnival of colors and sparkling shades. A precious selection of embroidered fabrics transform the art pieces in a shimmering parade that astonishes the eye of the observer, leaving mouths wide open in amazement and instilling a bizarre desire to touch

Pilotti has a skilled hand, which serves a flashy imagination.

The art of the past, especially the Renaissance, neoclassical and romantic portraiture remains the focal point of his work and the human body becomes an inexhaustible source of compositions. Botox lips, tattoos, coloured hair, fabrics marked by the most famous contemporary brands and many details, all elements of the present perfectly inserted in the figurative tradition of the past.

Pilotti breaks the contemporary artistic line and reverses the route by returning to the concept of beauty by merging the past with the present.
